TO BONA FIDE INVESTORS.

THE DIRECTORS of a PUBLIC COMPANY, the Head Offices of which are situate in the City of Manchester, having completed their arrangements, beg respectfully to call the particular attention of the public to their investment. The concern, previously and for over twenty years, has been the property of one private gentleman, during which time it has been in active operation, and has returned very fastidious profits, which profits will be considerably augmented by the introduction of additional capital. The Vendor having come to an arrangement with the present Company for that purpose. As this is an undertaking of a substantial character, and one which cannot fail to return first-class Dividends on investments, it is requested that adventurous speculators seeking promotion money, and others bagatelling in questionable concerns, will not make applications for particulars; but to all who desire to secure a permanent income, from the humble investor of five pounds to the more fortunate one of five thousand, the Directors will give the fullest information; and they respectfully solicit such persons to write for Prospectuses immediately, to

A BIBLE FOR THE YOUNG.

Now ready, in One Volume, crown 8vo, cloth, price 2s.

THE SCHOOL AND CHILDREN'S BIBLE.

Prepared under the superintendence of the Rev. W. ROGERS, M.A., Prebendary of St. Paul's, Chaplain-in-Ordinary to the Queen, and Rector of St. Botolph, Bishopsgate. With a full Synoptical INDEX of SUBJECTS.

"This work is a laudable attempt to carry into effect an idea which must have occurred to most persons interested in education, and to which we ourselves gave expression some time ago. It may be described as an abridged Bible, with such parts of it left out as are unnecessary or unsuitable to be perused by children.... It may be regarded, says the Editor, as a New Lectionary, arranged on a somewhat different plan. It is not a mere collection of selected passages. It is the Bible itself with some superfluous parts left out, and a child who was well acquainted with it would have a very thorough knowledge both of the Old and of the New Testament. It may be put into a child's hands with the injunction that it should be learnt from beginning to end, and that many years must pass before he need learn more. The Editor, the Rev. W. Rogers, has had a successful experience in school management, which is a guarantee for the general good judgment with which the work has been executed; it is published in a very handy form, and is printed in a good type. The price (2s.) is so low that we should think a large sale would be necessary to remunerate the publishers, and we trust that so enterprising an experiment will be well rewarded."

TO BONA FIDE INVESTORS.

THE DIRECTORS of a PUBLIC COMPANY, the Head Offices of which are situate in the City of Manchester, with Branches to be opened in two important towns in England, having completed their arrangements, beg respectfully to call the particular attention of the public to their investment. The concern, previously and for over twenty years, has been the property of one private gentleman, during which time it has been in active operation, and has returned very flattering profits, which profits will be considerably augmented by the introduction of additional capital, the Vendor having come to an arrangement with the present Company for that purpose. As this is an undertaking of a substantial character, and one which cannot fail to return first-class Dividends on investments, it is requested that adventurous speculators seeking promotion money, and others bagatelling in questionable concerns, will not make applications for particulars; but to all who desire to secure a permanent income, from the humble investor of five pounds to the more fortunate one of five thousand, the Directors will give the fullest information; and they respectfully solicit such persons to write for Prospectuses immediately, to

A BIBLE FOR THE YOUNG.

Now ready, in One Volume, crown 8vo, cloth, price 2s.

THE SCHOOL AND CHILDREN'S BIBLE.

Prepared under the superintendence of the Rev. W. ROGERS, M.A., Prebendary of St. Paul's, Chaplain-in-Ordinary to the Queen, and Rector of St. Botolph, Bishopsgate. With a full Synoptical INDEX of SUBJECTS.

"This work is a laudable attempt to carry into effect an idea which must have occurred to most persons interested in education, and to which we ourselves gave expression some time ago. It may be described as an abridged Bible, with such parts of it left out as are unnecessary or unsuitable to be perused by children.... It may be regarded, says the Editor, as a New Testament, arranged on a somewhat different plan. It is not a mere collection of selected passages. It is the Bible itself with some superfluous parts left out, and a child who was well acquainted with it would have a very thorough knowledge both of the Old and of the New Testament. It may be

"A teacher who wants to make any lasting impression of young men must be able to kindle their enthusiasm and to command their respect. Respectable writers are too often wanting in enthusiasm, and enthusiastic writers too often fail to make themselves respected. Professor Blackie combines reason and enthusiasm, so as to escape both of these faults."

Full Mail Gazette.

"Written in a clear and forcible language, high and ennobling in its tone.....We would commend the book to all earnest-minded students, and young men generally, as the best vade-mecum extant, whose words of wisdom and elevating influence is sure to leave them better and happier than it found them."—Leeds Mercury.

"The volume is a little thing, but it is multum in parvo—not a flaming coronet to be worn in the forefront of literature, but a little locket gemmed within and without with real stones fitly set."—Edinburgh Courier.

"If all young men would only follow the Professor's golden rules, what a bright England ours would be in the next decade."

Gloucester Mercury.

"We heartily welcome the little volume, and commend it to all our young men."—Freeman.

"Students in all countries would do well to take as their vade-mecum a little book on Self-Culture by the eminent Professor of Greek in the University of Edinburgh."

Medical Press and Circular.

"An invaluable manual to be put into the hands of young men."—Era.

"It is full of practical instruction as to the subjects on which it treats, and if the Scottish youths who frequent the Edinburgh University—and, indeed, if all other youths—only read it through with honest care, they cannot fail to draw much help from it in the matter of self-culture."—Tablet.

"We have read every line of it with simple admiration and thankfulness. It abounds with wise suggestion and stimulating thought."—The Christian World.

"Take this to heart, ye who slip infidelity and babble of protoplasm in common rooms and at wines."

Oxford Undergraduates' Journal.

"The learned Professor of Greek in the University of Edinburgh—our Caledonian Mercury we may call him, eloquent as Hermes and wise withal—has here crowned his multifarious labours with one which surpasses them all in educational and ethical value. The vigorous, original, and morally-bracing manual before us we would gladly see in the hands of our youth, for nothing that we could readily name is better calculated to foster the best principles in their hearts, and to yield them a happy life."—Irish Ecclesiastical Gazette.

TO BONA FIDE INVESTORS.

THE DIRECTORS of a PUBLIC COMPANY,
the Head Offices of which are situate in the City of Manchester, with Branches to be opened in two important towns in England, having completed their arrangements, beg respectfully to call the particular attention of the public to their investment.

The concern, previously and for over twenty years, has been the property of one private gentleman, during which time it has been in active operation, and has returned very flattering profits, which profits will be considerably augmented by the introduction of additional capital, the Vendor having come to an arrangement with the present Company for that purpose.

As this is an undertaking of a substantial character, and one which cannot fail to return first-class Dividends on investments, it is requested that adventurous speculators seeking promotion money, and others bagtelling in questionable concerns, will not make applications for particulars; but to all who desire to secure a permanent income, from the humble investor of five pounds to the more fortunate one of five thousand, the Directors will give the fullest information: and they respectfully solicit such persons to write for Prospectuses immediately, to SYSTEMATIZED NOTES.—Every one who has been engaged in making researches in literature, must have felt the inconvenience of having to spend a great deal of time in seeking for a fact, or a group of facts, in periodicals and other voluminous publications. Monographs, Cyclopedias, and other methods calculated to obviate this inconvenience only do so partially, owing to their varied plans of arrangement. If facts were to be collected and classified on uniform principles, research would be greatly facilitated. The orderly grouping thus introduced would also be serviceable to scientific students, especially those who have not mastered the subject by special study. The undersigned has been occupied for many years in forming a collection of the kind mentioned above, which, however, is only the nucleus of what he hopes to accomplish. The notes are now sufficiently advanced to warrant, as he believes, his making them of practical utility. He therefore offers to supply references and answer requests for information on subjects connected with Natural History, Geology, and Geography, to persons willing to become Subscribers. The Annual Subscription for one year would be 2*l.* for Fellows of the Geological and Geographical Societies, and 3*l.* for other persons.—Address A. RAMSAY, 45 Norland-square, London, W.

TO BONA FIDE INVESTORS.

THE DIRECTORS of a PUBLIC COMPANY, the Head Offices of which are situated in the City of Manchester, with Branches to be opened in two important towns in England, having completed their arrangements, beg respectfully to call the particular attention of the public to their investment.

The concern, previously and for over twenty years, has been the property of one private gentleman, during which time it has been in active operation, and has returned very flattering profits, which profits will be considerably augmented by the introduction of additional capital, the Vendor having come to an arrangement with the present Company for that purpose.

As this is an undertaking of a substantial character, and one which cannot fail to return first-class Dividends on investments, it is requested that adventurous speculators seeking promotion money, and others bagatelling in questionable concerns, will not make applications for particulars; but to all who desire to secure a permanent income, from the humble investor of five pounds to the more fortunate one of five thousand, the Directors will give the fullest information; and they respectfully solicit such persons to write for Prospectuses immediately, to

LORD MINTO'S MEMOIRS AND CORRESPONDENCE.

Just published, in 3 vols. post 8vo, price 3*l*s. 6*d*.

LIFE AND LETTERS OF SIR GILBERT ELLIOT,

FIRST EARL OF MINTO, FROM 1751 TO 1806,

When his Public Life in Europe was closed by his Appointment to the Vice-Royalty of India. Edited by his Grand-Niece, the COUNTESS OF MINTO.

"This life of the first Lord Minto has the merit of letting him tell his own story in a series of singularly interesting letters. It is literally edited by his great-niece, the present Countess, who contents herself with completing the connection of an epistolary narrative that would otherwise have been disjointed; introducing some curt remarks and foot-notes by way of elucidation, and prefixing a brief sketch of the family and early days of the subject of the memoir. We are grateful for a self-restraint of which many writers would have been incapable, with such a wealth of tempting materials to manipulate. Although the selection of letters runs over three volumes, we would not have it any the shorter, and although it is brought to an appropriate close with the break in Lord Minto's career when he exchanged European politics for the administration of India, we shall look forward to a sequel at some future day from the hands of the same judicious editor. Lord Minto's character and the incidents of his life explain the completeness of the collection of letters he left behind. . . . Having said so much of the character of the letters and their writer, we need do no more than make allusion to the momentous interest of their contents. They cover the period of the American War, the French Revolution, and England's desperate struggle for existence up to the death of the great War Minister and his rival."—The Times, April 2.

ARNOLD. Fourth Edition, revised. Crown 8vo, 5s.

"This book, when it gets known, will become a power, against which one may set oneself in opposition, but with which one must reckon."—Theological Review of Leyden.

"While maintaining my criticisms, I sincerely wish and hope that England may send us many more books as powerfully convinced, as boldly written, as instructive, and giving as much food for reflection as this of Mr. Matthew Arnold."—Mons. Albert Réville, in The Academy.

"We can assure every reader that he will find here a serious intention, and a sympathetic treatment, which, if it does not convince, will at any rate be found extremely suggestive. It certainly tends to help Christianity, however hostile it may be found to separate sects."—North American Review.

TERESINA PEREGRINA; or, Fifty Thousand Miles of Travel Round the World. By THERESA
YELVERTON, Viscountess AVONMORE. 2 vols. 8vo, 21s.

"The authoress is an adventurous and indefatigable traveller, and saw sufficient in the course of her wanderings to furnish material for a dozen ordinary books of travel. She skips all commonplace bits of journeying from place to place, and only dwells upon the scenes that were best worth describing. She went quite out of the beaten tracks, has much to tell that is fresh and new, and her volumes make lively reading."—Full Mail Gazette.

ANECDOTE LIVES of the LATER WITS

and HUMOURISTS: Canning, Captain Morris, Curran,

FONBLANQUE. Including his Contributions to the Examiner. Edited by his Nephew, E. B. DE FONBLANQUE.
8vo, 16s.

"We have, perhaps, said enough to convince our readers that Lord Lytton scarcely exaggerated when he compared Fonblanque with Swift, and we are sure the contents of this volume will be read again and again by those who appreciate wit and wisdom."
Times.

"A book to buy."—Vanity Fair.

THE NEW AND POPULAR NOVELS.

AT HER MERCY. By the Author of
"Lost Sir Masingberd." 3 vols.

"At Her Mercy" contains many pleasant, lively, telling descriptions both of persons and scenes, and an undercurrent of genuine, genial, and perfectly natural humanity. The heroine's character alone is sufficient to cover a multitude of faults; it is conceived and treated with so faithful an appreciation of what is truly feminine and lovable."—Full Mail Gazette.

The MYSTERY of ASHLEIGH MANOR.
By ELIZA RHYL DAVIES. 3 vols. post 8vo.

"Three volumes of thrilling interest."—Vanity Fair.
The authoress displays very considerable dramatic faculties,
and there is a very marked and remarkable individuality in the book. Its effect as a whole is startling and impressive. The story is weird and ghastly."—Daily News.
"We can fairly pronounce the book to be one of the most promising we have seen for many a day, and we hope that Miss Davies will give us another still better."—Academy.

TO BONA FIDE INVESTORS.

THE DIRECTORS of a PUBLIC COMPANY,
the Head Offices of which are situated in the City of Manchester,
with Branches to be opened in two important towns in England,
having completed their arrangements, beg respectfully to call the
particular attention of the public to their investment.

The concern, previously and for over twenty years, has been the property of one private gentleman, during which time it has been in active operation, and has returned very satisfactory profits, which profits will be considerably augmented by the introduction of additional capital, the Vendor having come to an arrangement with the present
Company for that purpose.

As this is an undertaking of a substantial character, and one which cannot fail to return class Dividends on Investments, it is requested that adventurous speculators seeking promotion money, and others bagatelling in questionable concerns, will not make applications for particulars; but to all who desire to secure a permanent income, from the humble investor of five pounds to the more fortunate
one of five thousand, the Directors will give the fullest information;
and they respectfully solicit such persons to write for Prospectuses
immediately, to

"A very valuable addition to the list of works advancing our
cosmical knowledge."
Scientific Review.

"The Author of this book gives us a new Principia. Still, the book is the production of a man
thoroughly well up in his own
subject and many others collateral with it. It is one that may be safely commended to the study of all who are interested in

the subject of ocean currents."

TO BONA FIDE INVESTORS.

THE DIRECTORS of a PUBLIC COMPANY,

the Head Offices of which are situate in the City of Manchester,

with Branches to be opened in two important towns in England,

having completed their arrangements, beg respectfully to call the

particular attention of the public to their investment.

The concern, previously and for over twenty years, has been the property of one private gentleman, during which time it has been in active operation, and has returned very satisfying profits, which profits

will be considerably augmented by the introduction of additional

capital, the Vendor having come to an arrangement with the present

Company for that purpose.

As this is an undertaking of a substantial character, and one which cannot fail to return first-class Dividends on investments, it is requested that adventurous speculators seeking promotion money, and others baggelling in questionable concerns, will not make applications for particulars; but to all who desire to secure a permanent

income, from the humble investor of five pounds to the more fortunate

one of five thousand, the Directors will give the fullest information;

and they respectfully solicit such persons to write for Prospectuses

immediately, to

NOTICE.

MR. H. M. STANLEY'S NEW WORK on the

ASHANTEE and ABYSSINIAN WARS, COOMASSIE, and MAGDALA. A Story of Two British Campaigns in Africa.

Demy 8vo, with Maps and Illustrations, 16s. [This day.]

"Mr. Henry Stanley has so indelibly written his name on three out of the four parts of Africa which have the most dramatic interest for

Englishmen, that his new book, telling the story of two campaigns, will be almost as welcome as that which told of the finding of Livingstone."—Daily News.

"From its opinion as in action, he makes up his mind when nineteen out of twenty men would be hesitating, and generally he jumps pretty nearly to a just conclusion. We are struck throughout his volume by the shrewdness of his surmises when he is guessing in the dark, and of the frequency with which his hurried judgments are confirmed."—Times.

"He fairly wins admiration by the frank and yet stern eloquence of his narrative."—Telegraph.

"Mr. Stanley writes in a brisk and characteristic style, full of pic-turesqueness and vivacity. . . . We commend it as a spirited and graphic story of an expedition which reflected credit on all who took part in it."—Standard.

THE OCEAN; its Tides and Currents and their Causes. By WILLIAM LEIGHTON JORDAN, F.R.G.S.

"A very valuable addition to the list of works advancing our cosmical knowledge."

"The Author of this book gives us a new Principle. Still, the book is the production of a man thoroughly well up in his own subject and many others collateral with it. It is one that may be safely commended to the study of all who are interested in the subject of ocean currents."

"Here we have the vulnerable point of Dr. Carpenter's modified resuscitation of the old theory of oceanic circulation clearly indicated, and a home-thrust of clear, sound reasoning fairly delivered through it. As this point is the very heart of Dr. Carpenter's contribution to the subject, the thrust is fatal. It is followed by further and equally clear and able discussion of the details of Dr. Carpenter's arguments, and of the theories of Maury, Rennell, Herschel, &c. This Chapter XX. of Mr. Jordan's book is really excellent, and worthy of careful reading."

Quarterly Journal of Science.

The reports received from H.M.S. Challenger are confirming the views expressed in this work with a distinctness exceeding the most sanguine anticipations of the Author.

PALL MALL.—A Series of Beautiful Original DRAWINGS by GUSTAVE DORÉ, illustrating Tennyson's and Hood's Poems; and a Marble Bust of Tennyson.

MESSRS. FOSTER respectfully announce they are instructed to include in the AUCTION, at the Gallery, 54 Pall Mall, on Wednesday, May 13, in single lots, FIFTY-ONE DRAWINGS by Gustave Doré, illustrating 36 of the most striking incidents in Tennyson's "Idylls of the King," and 15 Scenes from the most popular of Hood's Poems. These Drawings evidence in a high degree the imaginative powers of Mons. Doré; indeed, it may truthfully be said of them, that the Artist's pencil has graphically portrayed the poet's mind. OPINIONS OF THE PRESS.

"The ACADEMY may fairly claim the first place among literary journals as the representative of the ripest and soundest English scholarship; and its criticisms of art, literature, music, and the drama are informing, incisive, and trustworthy. . . . It is hardly possible in a few words to give an idea of the excellence of this old journal in its new form, but every subject with which it deals (and it deals with many untouched by other papers) is entrusted to the hands of men who know what they are writing about, and the result is a freshness and fulness of information and an accuracy of judgment which commands confidence, and ministers to the intellectual satisfaction and pleasure of the reader. . . . The accomplished and scholarly dramatic critic of the ACADEMY, Mr. Frederick Wedmore, the novelist, whose theatrical notices are perhaps the best in style and the most trustworthy now appearing in any London journal."—Manchester City News.

"Our contemporary the ACADEMY has suddenly sprung into a great literary position, and is full of instructive and interesting matter."—Spectator.

"The ACADEMY, in its new and enlarged form, has a promising look. Its size is that of the Athenaeum, and the general arrangement of its contents does not differ much from that of its venerable and not too enterprising contemporary. The great distinction between the two is that the articles of the ACADEMY are signed. . . . It will be seen that there is no lack of strong names. But strong names will not of themselves float a new paper. The editing, the general tone, the make-up of it are more important, and of these too a good report can be given. . . . Altogether, the ACADEMY is very readable, and bids fair to be a formidable rival to the Athenaeum, which, for that matter, it might speedily and easily surpass in certain respects."—New York Tribune.

"We can confidently recommend the ACADEMY to our readers. Its price is fourpence, and all its papers and reviews are signed by their writers, whose names have a high position in literature and art."—London Figaro.

THE ACADEMY will pursue the purely practical aim of being a guide and source of information to all educated persons.

BRITISH ASSOCIATION for the ADVANCE-MENT of SCIENCE, 23 Albemarle Street, London, W.—The NEXT ANNUAL GENERAL MEETING will be held at BELFAST, commencing on WEDNESDAY, August 19.

PRESIDENT-ELECT:

Professor TYNDALL, D.C.L., LL.D., F.R.S., F.C.S.

NOTICE TO CONTRIBUTORS OF MEMOIRS.—Authors are reminded that, after an arrangement dating from 1871, the acceptance of Memoirs, and the days on which they are to be read, are now, as far as possible, determined by Organizing Committees for the several sessions before the beginning of the Meeting. It has therefore become necessary, in order to give an opportunity to the Committees of doing justice to the several communications, that each Author should prepare an Abstract of his Memoir, of a length suitable for insertion in the published Transactions of the Association, and that he should send it, together with the original Memoir, by book-post on or before August 1, addressed thus:—"General Secretaries, British Association, 23 Albemarle Street, London, W. For Section." If it should be inconvenient to the Author that his Paper should be read on any particular day, he is requested to send information thereof to the Secretaries in a separate note.

G. GRIFFITH, M.A.,

Assistant General Secretary, Harrow.

TERESINA PEREGRINA; or, Fifty Thou-
sand Miles of Travel Round the World. By THERESA
YELVERTON, Lady AVONMORE. 2 vols. 8vo, 21s.

"The authoress has not travelled as any other lady travels, and she does not write like any other writer, but as Harry Lorrequer might have written, supposing he had done fifty thousand miles of outlandish journeying with 'go' of the same quality as that which carried him through his Irish exploits. She goes into no preliminary details, avoids the statistics of travel in which books of this kind commonly abound, and is always original, amusing, and surprising." Spectator.

The LIFE and LABOURS of ALBANY
FONBLANQUE. Including his Contributions to the Examiner. Edited by his Nephew, E. B. DE FONBLANQUE.
8vo, 16s.

"This book is full of delightful anecdotes. We will only quote one, and that not one of the best. The Duke of Wellington, on the 27th of November, 1837, stated that two Irish clergymen had been murdered. Lord Mulgrave exclaimed, 'Oh, no; not one;'— upon which the Duke rejoined, 'If I am mistaken, I am sorry for it.'" Vanity Fair.

JOHNNY LUDLOW. In 3 vols.
crown 8vo.

"The author has given proof of a rarer dramatic instinct than we had suspected among our living writers of fiction. It is not possible by means of extracts to convey any adequate sense of the humour, the pathos, the dramatic power, and graphic description of this book. We recommend our readers to procure it for themselves, and we are quite certain they will thank us for having led them to a rare enjoyment." Nonconformist.

AT HER MERCY. By the Author of
"Lost Sir Maaingbird." 3 vols.

"At Her Mercy" contains many pleasant, lively, telling descriptions both of persons and of scenes, and an undercurrent of genuine, genial, and perfectly natural humanity. The heroine's character alone is sufficient to cover a multitude of faults; it is conceived and treated with so faithful an appreciation of what is truly feminine and lovable." Pall Mall Gazette.

The MYSTERY of ASHLEIGH MANOR.
By ELIZA RHYL DAVIES. 3 vols. post 8vo.

"Three volumes of thrilling interest." Vanity Fair.
The authoress displays very considerable dramatic faculties,
and there is a very marked and remarkable individuality in the book. Its effect as a whole is startling and impressive. The story is weird and ghastly." Daily News.

THE OCEAN; its Tides and Currents and their Causes. By WILLIAM LEIGHTON JORDAN, F.R.G.S.

"A very valuable addition to the list of works advancing our
cosmical knowledge."

Scientific Review.
"The Author of this book gives us a new Principia. Still, the book is the production of a man
thoroughly well up in his own
subject and many others collateral with it. It is one that may be safely commended to the study of all who are interested in
the subject of ocean currents."

Iron.
"Here we have the vulnerable point of Dr. Carpenter's modified resuscitation of the old theory of oceanic circulation clearly indicated, and a home-thrust of clear, sound reasoning fairly delivered through it. As this point is the very heart of Dr.

Carpenter's contribution to the subject, the thrust is fatal. It is followed by further and equally clear and able discussion of the details of Dr. Carpenter's arguments, and of the theories of Matury, Rennell, Herschel, &c.
This Chapter XX. of Mr. Jordan's book is really excellent,
and worthy of careful reading."

on the vast subject before him, of furnishing his readers with a

has in fact done much more than this, and in the course of his

TO BONA FIDE INVESTORS.

THE DIRECTORS OF a PUBLIC COMPANY,
the Head Office of which are situate in the City of Manchester,
with Branches to be opened in two important towns in England,
having completed their arrangements, beg respectfully to call the
particular attention of the public to their investment.

The concern, previously and for over twenty years, has been the property of one private gentleman, during which time it has been in active operation, and has returned very flattering profits, which profits
will be considerably augmented by the introduction of additional capital, the Vendor having come to an arrangement with the present
Company for that purpose.

As this is an undertaking of a substantial character, and one which cannot fail to return first-class Dividends on investments, it is requested that adventurous speculators seeking promotion money, and others haggling in questionable concerns, will not make applications for particulars, but to all who desire to secure a permanent
income, from the humble investor of five pounds to the more fortunate
one of five thousand, the Directors will give the fullest information;
and they respectfully solicit such persons to write for Prospectuses
immediately, to

ARCHITECTURAL DETAILS.—Sir G. G. SCOTT, R.A.

"The art and workmanship of that beautiful shrine (the Albert Memorial) are well worthy of this splendid volume, and such a letter-press and pictorial account is not only a fitting complement to Sir Gilbert Scott's work, but it is a very necessary aid to those who would pass judgment upon it. It is only by fully understanding the artist's intention and the manner in which it has been executed, that a fair estimate of the result can be attained. Those who would fully know how costly is the workmanship which has produced so splendid a work, must study the account of the construction in this volume."— Times.

"This splendid illustrated book brings before the general public the merits of the fine sculpture, architecture, and decorations of this national work. The volume itself is a credit to English enterprise and English typography. The plates are very excellent, while the descriptive account will supply particulars of interest to all who take a pleasure either in the Memorial itself or in these illustrations of it. It is a matter of congratulation that this work can now be known in the different capitals of Europe, and that its merits have received a record worthy of them."—Observer.

"A beautiful book, which gives a history of the National Memorial erected in Hyde Park, describes the construction, and illustrates every portion of it, both as to colour and form, in a complete and very admirable manner. It is not too much to say that every Englishman is interested in this volume, which will serve to convince all who study it, and who may not be able to visit the monument itself, that the finest modern work of its kind has been produced in this country."—Builder.

"This sumptuous volume, enriched with engravings and chromo-lithographs, &c., and altogether got up with evident disregard of any but artistic considerations, is in keeping with the National Memorial which it describes and illustrates. Much has been already published on this ornate and costly work; but not till now have we had an account which is absolutely exhaustive of the subject."—Saturday Review.

THE ACADEMY

A WEEKLY REVIEW OF LITERATURE, SCIENCE, AND ART.

WITH the Fifth Volume the ACADEMY entered at the beginning of the present year upon a new phase of its existence. Instead of 480 pages of text a year, it now publishes, in fifty-two weekly numbers, 1040 pages, each of which will contain one-fourth more matter than the old ACADEMY page.

Three-fourths of each number of the new ACADEMY is devoted to Literature of the Imagination, Travels and Antiquities, History and Biography, and includes regular notices of the Picture Exhibitions, the Music of the Season, and the current Drama, English and French. There are periodical news-letters on literary, artistic, and scientific subjects from the chief capitals of Europe, and from America; and an adequate space is set apart for correspondence between literary men, jottings of interest, publishers' announcements, personal news, and the like. In all these matters the ACADEMY tells people of all classes who are aiming at the higher culture, what to choose and what to discard, in unmistakeable terms and with promptitude.

The remaining fourth part of the periodical is occupied with scientific matters interesting to a smaller class of readers, but divested as far as possible of all unnecessary technicalities which render them uninteresting or unintelligible to the educated as distinguished from the scientific reader. The various departments of knowledge have now become so minutely specialised, that even the scientific man can no longer hope to keep pace with discovery in all directions at once, and beyond the limits of his own peculiar study occupies to a greater or less extent the position of the educated layman or general reader. So that the wants of the small scientific class are in this respect identical, or nearly so, with those of the larger reading public. These requirements vary in different countries and at different periods, and can only be ascertained by actual experience. Our experience during the past four years has been that the scientific matter to be found in the ACADEMY has been pitched in too high a key, or at least has been presented in too technical a form to be so practically useful even to the scientific reader in this country, and at the present time, as it might without any diminution of fulness or accuracy be made. We propose then to ourselves a much more difficult task than we have hitherto attempted, viz. that of making this department of the ACADEMY useful to all, and engaging the attention and interest of all educated persons in the progress of European knowledge.

This department will embrace Natural Philosophy, Theology, and the Science of Language, especially of the English Language and Dialects, and the very important and interesting study of Comparative Philology, in connection with the Mythology, Folklore, Manners, Customs, and Institutions of the various races of Mankind.

It may be asked, why retain the name ACADEMY if the paper is to be so entirely re-organised as to form to all intents and purposes a new critical organ?

We have re-organised the paper because we think that such a critical organ as we have described is wanted. As to the retention of the name, a few words of explanation are necessary.

Very few persons have, we think, understood what was meant by calling the old fortnightly periodical, which we now propose to supersede, the ACADEMY.

The word "Academy" suggests to most average Englishmen, in the first instance, the idea of a second-rate and pretentious private school. It is also the name of a chartered Institution in London, which has won a reputation for fairness and discrimination in hanging pictures. As the name of this periodical, it appears to have given the impression to some persons that we propose to ourselves to treat of matters exclusively interesting to schoolmasters and professors at the Universities. But in all European languages except the English an "Academy" means a central organ of sound information and correct taste in intellectual matters. The great French Academy founded by Richelieu has more particularly taken under its charge the maintenance of the purity of the French language. The Academies founded in the principal German Capitals, and elsewhere, in imitation of the French, have laid a greater stress upon the maintenance of correct information in matters of scientific knowledge; and the renowned Academy of France has added to itself special Academies having the same object.

Now it is in the sense in which the word is understood on the Continent, in the sense of a standard of correctness in intellectual matters, that the name was and is still applied to the ACADEMY Journal. The great national importance of concentrating the intellectual forces of a country is recognised in every country but our own; and this recognition has justified the employment of public funds for the maintenance of the Foreign Academies as public Institutions, and the partial support of their members. And the absence of such an Institution in England has had this result, that a larger amount of bad work both in literature and in science passes unchallenged in this country than in any other, standing upon the same level of civilisation.

What, then, in other countries is done for learning and science by means of an Institution supported at the public expense, we propose to accomplish in this country, not only for these but for all the materials of culture and refinement by means of a periodical subjected, after the English manner, to the economic conditions of supply and demand, viz. to keep the reader up to the mark of what is best in the world, to gibbet mercilessly what is bad, and to criticise with sympathetic fairness what falls between these two extremes.

Keeping thus always to the main stream of the best production, we shall have to point to Germany for Science, to France for Art, but to our own country for Poetry and Fiction, for the Literature of Manners and Society, for Travel and Adventure, as well as for the great philosophic ideas which are transforming the mental horizon of mankind.

But there is, we are firmly convinced, no necessary connection between setting up a standard of correctness and being unintelligible or unattractive to the average reader. It is true that much of the attractive writing in this country is deficient in accuracy, and perhaps no less true, that our own work hitherto has preferred accuracy to attractiveness. Still we believe that it is practicable to unite both these qualities in criticism; and by our elaborate organisation of departmental editing, we confidently expect that we shall be able, as we have determined, to unite them in our new issue.

TO BONA FIDE INVESTORS.

THE DIRECTORS of a PUBLIC COMPANY,
the Head Offices of which are situate in the City of Manchester,
with Branches to be opened in two important towns in England,
having completed their arrangements, beg respectfully to call the
particular attention of the public to their investment.

The concern, previously and for over twenty years, has been the property of one private gentleman, during which time it has been in active operation, and has returned very flattering profits, which profits
will be considerably augmented by the introduction of additional capital, the Vendor having come to an arrangement with the present
Company for that purpose.

As this is an undertaking of a substantial character, and one which cannot fail to return first-class Dividends on investments, it is requested that adventurous speculators seeking promotion money, and others baggelling in questionable concerns, will not make applications for particulars; but to all who desire to secure a permanent
income from the humble investor of five pounds to the more fortunate
one of five thousand, the Directors will give the fullest information;
and they respectfully solicit such persons to write for Prospectuses
immediately, to

TO BONA FIDE INVESTORS.

THE DIRECTORS of a PUBLIC COMPANY,
the Head Offices of which are situate in the City of Manchester,
with Branches to be opened in two important towns in England,
having completed their arrangements, beg respectfully to call the
particular attention of the public to their investment.

The concern, previously and for over twenty years, has been the property of one private gentleman, during which time it has been in active operation, and has returned very flattering profits, which profits
will be considerably augmented by the introduction of additional capital. The Vendor having come to an arrangement with the present
Company for that purpose.

As this is an undertaking of a substantial character, and one which cannot fail to return first-class Dividends on investments, it is requested that adventuresome speculators seeking promotion money, and others bartering in questionable concerns, will not make applications for particulars; but to all who desire to secure a permanent
income, from the humble investor of five pounds to the more fortunate
one of five thousand, the Directors will give the fullest information;
and they respectfully solicit such persons to write for Prospectuses
immediately, to

THE NEW NOVELS.

AT EVERY LIBRARY.

At every Library, in 3 vols. crown 8vo.

JOHNNY LUDLOW.

"It is an agreeable change to come upon a book like 'Johnny Ludlow.' There is considerable merit in the stories, and a certain freshness of description in the scenes of country life and country people, which is an agreeable change after the ordinary sensational novel.
Johnny Ludlow's character is very well drawn; the quiet gentle lad who was always reading people's faces, and taking likes and dislikes accordingly."—Saturday Review.

"The author has given proof of a rarer dramatic instinct than we had suspected among our living writers of fiction. It is not possible by means of extracts to convey any adequate sense of the humour, the pathos, the dramatic power, and graphic description of this book."

"The author attains to genuine pathos. A considerable sense of humour is displayed, and the author shows vigour in description."

"The stories are fresh, lively, and vigorous in point of style, full of clever dialogue, imprinted with common sense as well as a sound, heartful, and moral tone. A vein of truthfulness and picturesque description, heightened by touches of pathos and real humour, runs through them all. They are masterly in skill, and will meet with a ready welcome."—Standard.

"These volumes contain a series of tales, each connected one with the other, which are full of interest. Johnny is capital—his descriptions are humorous and full of force, and his pictures of rustic life and character are evidently true portraits. The book is one which deserves to be read as a very clever and amusing collection of stories."

FLORENCE MARRYAT'S NEW NOVEL.

"NO INTENTIONS."

By FLORENCE MARRYAT, Authoress of "Love's Conflict,"

"Mad Dumaresq," &c.

At every Library, in 3 vols. crown 8vo.

"A clever novel. We wish that there were more writers like Florence Marryat, to describe for us in bright racy novels like 'No Intentions.'"
—Morning Post.

"Mrs. Rose Church has merited as a novel writer which give her an advantage over many of her competitors. She can work up her mysteries skilfully enough to excite the interest of her readers. Such a story as this is greatly relished by the reader."—Pall Mall Gazette.

BY THE AUTHOR OF "LOST SIR MASSINGBERD."

AT HER MERCY.

At every Library, in 3 vols. crown 8vo.

"At Her Mercy" contains many pleasant, lively, telling descriptions both of persons and of scenes, many laughter-moving remarks and situations, and an undercurrent of genuine, genial, and perfectly natural humanity. The heroine's character alone is sufficient to cover a multitude of faults; it is conceived and treated with so faithful an appreciation of what is truly feminine and lovable."

"The author of 'Lost Sir Massingberd' has a keen sense of humour, and quick perception of character, and a certain freshness of style which is remarkable in a writer of such unbounded fertility. We doubt whether Mr. Wilkie Collins could manage to dovetail together a number of characters and incidents more skilfully."

—Saturday Review.

"To say of 'At Her Mercy' that it is amusing is to give an idea of its character at once true and yet not quite just; for the plot is of a grave and earnest character, and is not enough for two or three stories of a more economical kind. Nevertheless it is on the amusing side of it that the book is remarkable, and that the author's increased facility for combining the realities of everyday life with the portentous events of which his stories are generally constructed is evident."—Spectator.

TO BONA FIDE INVESTORS.

THE DIRECTORS of a PUBLIC COMPANY,

the Head Offices of which are situate in the City of Manchester,

with Branches to be opened in two important towns in England,

having completed their arrangements, beg respectfully to call the

particular attention of the public to their investment.

The concern, previously and for over twenty years, has been the property of one private gentleman, during which time it has been in active operation, and has returned very flattering profits, which profits

will be considerably augmented by the introduction of additional

capital, the Vendor having come to an arrangement with the present

Company for that purpose.

As this is an undertaking of a substantial character, and one which cannot fail to return first-class Dividends on investments, it is requested that adventurous speculators seeking promotion money, and

others bagatelling in questionable concerns, will not make applications for particulars; but to all who desire to secure a permanent

income, from the humble investor of five pounds to the more fortunate

one of five thousand, the Directors will give the fullest information; and they respectfully solicit such persons to write for Prospectuses

immediately, to

MY LIFE and WHAT I LEARNED IN IT:

an Autobiography. By GIUSEPPE MARIA CAMPANELLA. In demy 8vo, with Portrait, 14s.

"Messrs. R. Bentley & Son are about shortly to issue a work, entitled 'My Life and what I Learnt in it,' which is likely at this time to prove of special interest. The author, Signor G. M. Campanella, passed his novitiate in a monastery in the South of Italy. Thence he was called to Rome as Cantatore Cappellano Pontefice. He soon, however, laid himself open to suspicion on account of his known liberal views, which were not to be tolerated at the Papal Court. He was banished from the Eternal City, and recommended to return to his Neapolitan convent. A brief time of hope was then dawning for Italy, to be overclouded, however, by disappointment. It was the year of revolutions, 1848; the Italian people rose in arms to drive out the foreigner that had so long held the northern part of the peninsula in thrall. A Neapolitan battalion of volunteers was raised, and Signor Campanella accompanied these troops to Venice in the capacity of chaplain. Here he became acquainted with the well-known General Pepe and the patriot Daniele Manin. The author relates his singular monastic experiences, tells of the Sistine Chapel choir, and ends with a personal narrative of the exciting scenes witnessed during the liberation of Italy. The book, for all these reasons, promises to be of unusual interest."—Court Journal, February 7.

THE FRENCH HUMOURISTS from the TWELFTH to the NINETEENTH CENTURY. By

WALTER BESANT, M.A., Christ's Coll., Camb., Author of

"Studies in Early French Poetry," &c. 8vo, 16s.

"Mr. Besant is fortunate in a subject that is at once attractive and original. . . . We can only recommend the book to our readers, assuring them that some of the chapters we have scarcely noticed are not the least particularly fascinating, and that it will stimulate curiosity where it does not altogether satisfy it."—The Times.

"Mr. Besant has made a witty and interesting book out of an excellent subject."—Saturday Review.

ROSE and RUE. By Mrs. COMPTON READE.

In 3 vols. crown 8vo.

JOHNNY LUDLOW. In 3 vols.

crown 8vo.

"It is an agreeable change to come upon a book like 'Johnny Ludlow.' There is considerable merit in the stories, and a certain freshness of description in the scenes of country life and country people, which is an agreeable change after the ordinary sensational novel. Johnny Ludlow's character is very well drawn; the quiet gentle lad who was always reading people's faces, and taking likes and dislikes accordingly."—Saturday Review.

"We regard these stories as almost perfect of their kind. The writer not only possesses large knowledge of human nature, but is a humourist in the strictest sense of the word, and is, besides, master of that simple pathos which so often lies close to it. There is, in addition, a remarkable power of graphic description."—Spectator.

"The author has given proof of a rarer dramatic instinct than we had suspected among our living writers of fiction. It is not possible by means of extracts to convey any adequate sense of the humour, the pathos, the dramatic power, and graphic description of this book."—Nonconformist.

"The stories are fresh, lively, and vigorous in point of style, full of clever and caustic wit, and with common sense as well as a sound, healthy, and moral tone. A vein of truthfulness and picturesque description, heightened by touches of pathos and real humour, runs through them all. They are masterly in skill, and will meet with a ready welcome."—Standard.

"These volumes contain a series of tales, each connected one with the other, which are full of interest. Johnny is capital—his descriptions are humorous and full of force, and his pictures of rustic life and character are evidently true portraits. The book is one which deserves to be read as a very clever and amusing collection of stories."—Vanity Fair.

FABLES IN SONG.

By ROBERT, LORD LYTTON,

Author of "Poems by Owen Meredith."

Two Volumes, crown 8vo, 15s.

"He has given new life, new form, new force to the fable, and the doing so must be pronounced a remarkable discovery, and a striking feat of literary originality."—Standard.

"This is a very original book, in which Lord Lytton something more than worthily sustains his father's great reputation and his own."—Observer.

"There is much keen satire, many fine thoughts, many happy turns of expression; and, in particular, many beautiful natural descriptions."—Scotsman.

"While we dissent tolerably strongly from some of the philosophy, that does not prevent us from recognising the originality, the good sense, the ingenious fancy of the poetry—of which we would only add further that it has what modern verse lacks, a certain delightful aroma of literature, which adds a charm even to work that is distinctively imaginative."—Pall Mall Gazette.

"It was my fortune to see more fighting than anyone else in the expedition, excepting a few officers serving in the native regiments. Moreover, no other writer, military or civil, witnessed either of these three events:—The Storming of Amoaful by the Black Watch; the Storming of Ordahua by the Rifle Brigade; or the taking of Commaise by Sir Archibald Alison and Colonel McLeod. I witnessed these three events."

JAMES ALLPORT,

General Manager

IMPORTANT CORRESPONDENCE.

The REV. SIR EDWARD R. JODRELL, Bart.

To Messrs. FELTOE & SONS,

26 Conduit Street, Regent Street, W.

When at Sall I received an Analytical Report of your "Specialité" Sherry, and you must forgive me for saying that at first I regarded the whole matter as a most egregious piece of humbug. Having, however, tasted the Wine in question, and found it most agreeable to the palate, I determined, on my own responsibility, to have it analysed for myself, having fully also determined previously to expose any hoax pro bono publico, or to give you the benefit of the analysis, should it turn out in your favour. I have the pleasure to forward you Professor Redwood's (of the Pharmaceutical Society of Great Britain) Analysis, which says more than I can express. I am very particular as to the Wine I drink, and as I have been hitherto buying "every-day Sherry" at 80s. a dozen, I am rejoiced to find now that I can purchase Wine of equal strength and superior bouquet at half that price. This should be known to the "General Public," and you can make any use you deem proper of this letter, and also of Professor Redwood's most elaborate analysis.

Yours faithfully,

21 Portland Place, London: December 9, 1873.

(Signed)

EDWARD REPPS JODRELL.

The Rev. Sir E. R. JODRELL.

SIR,—I have completed the Analysis of the sample of Sherry you left with me, and proceed to report the results. Judged by the palate, it might be represented as a light, moderately dry Wine, with nothing to object to in its flavour or apparent strength. It is slightly acid to test-paper, and has a specific gravity of 986.8. These characters correspond with those of a sample of reputed good Montilla Sherry, the specific gravity of which was found to be 986.6, and the acidity almost identical with that of your sample.

I proceeded to make a more minute analysis, the results of which were as follows:—

Absolute alcohol, by volume	20.0 parts in 100
Free or unneutralized acid, partly volatile and partly non-volatile	0.54 "
Volatile acid (acetic acid)	0.1 "
Sugar and extract	2.5 "
Ash, from incineration of extract	0.45 "
MINERAL ACID, or inorganic matter, NOT YIELDED BY GRAPE JUICE	NONE "

THESE RESULTS ARE ALL SATISFACTORY. The proportion of alcohol is that found in the best samples of Sherry, the volatile acid (acetic acid) is not more than is usually present, and the fixed acid is the TRUE ACID OF THE GRAPE, namely, tartaric acid. The ash is not more than it should be, and contains nothing foreign to the grape.

In preparing this Analysis, I have been enabled to observe that the alcohol, when separated from the other constituents of the Wine, was PURE IN FLAVOUR AND OF GOOD QUALITY, and that there was NOTHING OBJECTIONABLE in the extract or other products that were separated in the process of analysis.

I am, yours truly,

(Signed)

T. REDWOOD, Professor of Chemistry to the

PHARMACEUTICAL SOCIETY OF GREAT BRITAIN.

ONE THOUSAND PHYSICIANS AND SURGEONS.

The recent Medical Correspondence in the "TIMES" demonstrates how injurious to health is "made-up Sherry," ALCOHOLIZED to an UNREASONABLE extent.

DIETETIC RECORD.

"SPECIALITÉ" SHERRY.

"This wine has now maintained its reputation more than three years. Comparing an analysis which we made recently with the analysis of three years ago, we are glad to see that it is still an honest, sound wine, free from acid, and of excellent quality. It has attained and deserves a great medical reputation."

The
BRITISH MEDICAL JOURNAL

writes, March 1, 1873, in its Official Report upon

the ANNUAL MUSEUM

at

BIRMINGHAM:—

"Only one wine was shown this year—FELTON'S 'SPECIALITÉ' SHERRY—a wine which is deservedly making its way chiefly through the recommendations of the Medical Profession, founded on its honestly excellent qualities, its freedom from acidity and heat, and its uniform soundness."

The PUBLIC ANALYST for PADDINGTON

writes, January 17, 1874:—

"I have had it tested in my laboratory, and am satisfied that it is a genuine, high-class, natural wine, and free from any admixture or acidity. Invalids, and persons who have gouty or uric acid tendencies, and require wine as a beverage in moderate quantity, will find your 'SPECIALITÉ' SHERRY pure and wholesome."

BOTHWELL.

By ALGERNON CHARLES SWINBURNE.

"A magnificent effort of genius. It is not too much to say that, should he never write anything more, the poet has by this work firmly established his position, and given us a poem upon which his fame may safely rest. The mechanism of the poem is simply perfect; it would be impossible to imagine more faultless or original blank verse. The poet must henceforth rank amongst the first of British authors."

"Bothwell will redound enduringly to Mr. Swinburne's reputation as a poet... The reader will here find him at his very best."—Standard.
"The imagination is splendid; the style large and imperial; the insight into character keen; the blank verse varied, sensitive, flexible, and alive. Mr. Swinburne has once more proved his right to occupy a seat among the lofty singers of our land."—Daily News.

THE ROYAL BOOK of PASTRY and CONFECTIONERY. By JULES GOUFFÉ, Chef-de-Cuisine of the Paris Jockey Club. Translated from the French and adapted to English use by ALFRED GOUFFÉ, Head Pastry-Cook to Her Majesty the Queen. (Just published.)

"M. Gouffé's book may well be called the 'Royal Pastry Book,' for it is a most elaborate and exhaustive production, written with that appreciation of his métier, and that pride in his successful practice of it, which belong to the true artist alone. . . . In so far, indeed, as practical acquaintance with an art can be attained by book-knowledge, we think that pastry-making and confectionery may be acquired from the 'Royal Pastry Book,' which is written with a clearness, a careful attention to detail, and a thoroughness quite beyond praise."—Spectator, June 6, 1874.

"But there is a solid body of sound practical method in all that M. Gouffé writes, which shows that he has really built up his eminence in his craft by exact attention to niceties which the rank and file of his profession allow to go haphazard."—Saturday Review, June 6, 1874.

ANNUUS DOMINI. A Prayer for Each Day of the Year, founded on a Text of Holy Scripture.

By CHRISTINA G. ROSSETTI.

"The main value of these prayers is this—that they show better than any other manual of their kind the use of Holy Scripture in devotion (Standard). The prayers are all addressed to the Second Person of the Blessed Trinity, and may each of them be considered as a meditation on the text preceding. They breathe a spirit of sincere and earnest piety (National Church); . . . they are simple without being in any instance commonplace, full of graceful thought and delicate expression (Church Bells); and . . . they possess the rhythmical flow which distinguishes the Book of Common Prayer. The language used is always appropriate, and sometimes extremely beautiful (Pail Mail Gazette). Readers acquainted with the devotional tone of much of Miss Rossetti's poetry, and her strong individualism, will hardly need to be told that this exquisite little book of daily prayer is marked by gravity, tenderness, thoughtfulness, an intense spirituality, and subdued poetical feeling."—Scottish Guardian.

TO BONA FIDE INVESTORS.

THE DIRECTORS of a PUBLIC COMPANY, the Head Office of which are situated in the City of Manchester, with Branches to be opened in two important towns in England, having completed their arrangements, beg respectfully to call the particular attention of the public to their investment.

The concern, previously and for over twenty years, has been the property of one private gentleman, during which time it has been in active operation, and has returned very flattering profits, which profits will be considerably augmented by the introduction of additional capital, the Vendor having come to an arrangement with the present Company for that purpose.

As this is an undertaking of a substantial character, and one which cannot fail to return first-class Dividends on investments, it is requested that adventurous speculators seeking promotion money, and others basing in questionable concerns, will not make applications for particulars; but to all who desire to secure a permanent income, from the humble investor of five pounds to the more fortunate one of five thousand, the Directors will give the fullest information; and they respectfully solicit such persons to write for Prospectuses immediately to

A WEEKLY REVIEW OF

LITERATURE, SCIENCE, ART, MUSIC, AND THE STAGE,

Will contain:

REVIEWS and NOTICES of all important New Books, English and Foreign.

REPORTS of TRAVEL, EXPLORING EXPEDITIONS, &c.

ENGLISH LANGUAGE, ANTIQUITIES and FOLKLORE.

NEWS LETTERS from Foreign Countries.

CORRESPONDENCE between Literary Men.

PUBLISHERS' ANNOUNCEMENTS.

NOTES on the PROGRESS of SCIENTIFIC DISCOVERY in all branches.

CRITICISMS of the PICTURE GALLERIES, of the STAGE, and of MUSIC.

OPINIONS OF THE PRESS.

"The ACADEMY may fairly claim the first place among literary journals as the representative of the ripest and soundest English scholarship; and its criticisms of art, literature, music, and the drama are informing, incisive, and trustworthy."

"It is hardly possible in a few words to give an idea of the excellence of this old journal in its new form, but every subject with which it deals (and it deals with many untouched by other papers) is entrusted to the hands of men who know what they are writing about, and the result is a freshness and fulness of information and an accuracy of judgment which commands confidence, and ministers to the intellectual satisfaction and pleasure of the reader. . . . The accomplished and scholarly dramatic critic of the ACADEMY, Mr. Frederick Wedmore, the novelist, whose theatrical notices are perhaps the best in style and the most trustworthy now appearing in any London journal."—Manchester City News.

"Our contemporary the ACADEMY has suddenly sprung into a great literary position, and is full of instructive and interesting matter."—Spectator.

"The ACADEMY, in its new and enlarged form, has a promising look. Its size is that of the Athenaeum, and the general arrangement of its contents does not differ much from that of its venerable and not too enterprising contemporary. The great distinction between the two is that the articles of the ACADEMY are signed. . . . It will be seen that there is no lack of strong names. But strong names will not of themselves float a new paper. The editing, the general tone, the make-up of it are more important, and of these too a good report can be given. . . . Altogether, the ACADEMY is very readable, and bids fair to be a formidable rival to the Athenaeum, which, for that matter, it might speedily and easily surpass in certain respects."—New York Tribune.

THE ACADEMY will pursue the purely practical aim of being a guide and source of information to all educated persons.

CHARLES KNIGHT MEMORIAL.

At a Meeting of Friends of the late Mr. CHARLES KNIGHT, shortly after his death, last year, it was resolved, "That a Memorial should be raised in honour of one whose life-long efforts in the creation of Cheap, Pure, and Elevated Literature have nobly contributed to the mental and moral welfare of his countrymen"; and a Committee was appointed to carry out that object.

Since then upwards of 1,000l. has been received; but it is hoped and believed that all classes will gladly co-operate to give a national character to the Memorial. Its form must, of course, depend upon the Subscriptions, and it is intended to invite the opinion of Subscribers upon the subject.

BOTHWELL.

By ALGERNON CHARLES SWINBURNE.

"Mr. Swinburne's most prejudiced critic cannot deny that 'Bothwell' is a poem of a very high character. It is written in a broad, nervous style, and moves with stately measure. Every line bears traces of power, individuality, and vivid imagination. Mr. Swinburne is not only a master of the music of language, but he has that indescribable touch which discloses the true poet—the touch that lifts from off the ground."—Saturday Review.

RICHARD BENTLEY AND SON'S NEW WORKS.

MY LIFE and WHAT I LEARN'T IN IT: an Autobiography. By GIUSEPPE MARIA CAMPANELLA. In demy 8vo, with Portrait, 14s.

[Now ready, at every Bookseller's.]

"Messrs. R. Bentley & Son are about shortly to issue a work, entitled 'My Life and what I Learnt in it,' which is likely at this time to prove of special interest. The author, Signor Campanella, passed his novitiate in a monastery in the South of Italy. Thence he was called to Rome as Cantatore Cappellano Pontificio. He soon, however, laid himself open to suspicion on account of his known Liberal views, which were not to be tolerated at the Papal Court. He was banished from the Eternal City, and 'recommended' to return to his Neapolitan convent. A brief time of hope was then dawning for Italy, to be overclouded, however, by disappointment. It was the year of revolutions, 1848; the Italian people rose in arms to drive out the foreigners that had so long held the northern part of the peninsula in thrall. A Neapolitan battalion of volunteers was raised, and Signor Campanella accompanied these troops to Venice in the capacity of chaplain. Here he became acquainted with the well-known General Pepe and the patriot Daniele Manin. The author relates his singular monastic experiences, tells of the Sistine Chapel choir, and ends with a personal narrative of the exciting scenes witnessed during the liberation of Italy. The book, for all these reasons, promises to be of unusual interest."—Court Journal.

THE FRENCH HUMOURISTS from the TWELFTH to the NINETEENTH CENTURY. By WALTER BESANT, M.A., Christ's Coll., Camb., Author of "Studies in Early French Poetry," &c. 8vo, 18s.

"Mr. Besant is fortunate in a subject that is at once attractive and original. . . . We can only recommend the book to our readers, assuring them that some of the chapters we have scarcely noticed are not the least particularly fascinating, and that it will stimulate curiosity where it does not altogether satisfy it."—The Times.

"Mr. Besant has made a witty and interesting book out of an excellent subject."—Saturday Review.

"An exceedingly witty and interesting book."—Vanity Fair.

"The author's pages never flag. Narrative, verse, and criticism flow on, brisk, sparkling, and pellucid from the first sentence to the last, and they are as full of information as they are of wit."—Guardian.

"A fund of agreeable reading which may be dipped into at any place or at any moment with the certainty of finding something worth having."—Daily News.

TO BONA FIDE INVESTORS.

THE DIRECTORS of a PUBLIC COMPANY,
the Head Offices of which are situated in the City of Manchester,
with Branches to be opened in two important towns in England,
having completed their arrangements, beg respectfully to call the
particular attention of the public to their investment.
The concern, previously and for over twenty years, has been the property of one private gentleman, during which time it has been in active operation, and has returned very flattering profits, which profits
will be considerably augmented by the introduction of additional capital, the Vendor having come to an arrangement with the present
Company for that purpose.
As this is an undertaking of a substantial character, and one which cannot fail to return first-class Dividends on investments, it is requested that adventurous speculators seeking promotion money, and others bagatelling in questionable concerns, will not make applications for particulars; but to all who desire to secure a permanent
income, from the humble investor of five pounds to the more fortunate
one of five thousand, the Directors will give the fullest information;
and they respectfully solicit such persons to write for Prospectuses
immediately, to

Capital, 100,000l., in 20,000 shares of 5l. each, whereof 10,000 are Ordinary, which, after receiving out of profits Dividends half-yearly at the rate of 10l. per centum per annum, will, out of surplus profits, be redeemed at par, with a Bonus of 1l. per Share; and 10,000 Preference Shares of 5l. each, which will be entitled, in priority to the Ordinary Shares, to Dividends half-yearly, at the rate of 7l. per centum per annum, and after the Ordinary Shares are redeemed in manner aforesaid, to be redeemed, out of surplus profits, at par, without bonus. To be issued in series.

First Issue, 5,000 Shares, to be issued at par. (Further Issues to be on such terms, as to Premium or otherwise, as the Directors shall determine.) To be paid 10s. on Application, 10s. on Allotment, and 1l. every month, from date of Allotment until the Shares are fully paid. Subscribers may pay up in full on any day on which an instalment is due, entitling them to full Dividends on amount paid. If the Shares allotted to any applicant be less than those applied for, the balance of deposit will be applied towards the amount due on Allotment, and the remainder (if any) returned to the applicant. If no allotment takes place, the ticipation in the profits in proportion to the amount of their purchases at the Stores, and gradually, by redeeming the Shares, to become sole proprietors of the Company, with all its future paid-up Capital, Reserve Fund, and other assets. An allotment of one or more Shares of the first issue entitles the allottee to a Purchaser's Life-Ticket without charge.

Applications in writing for the Office of Secretary will be received, with copies of testimonials, up to July 1, 1874; but no application can be laid before the Committee unless supported by recommendations from at least Two Members of the Civil Service, or Two Shareholders in the Company. Salary to commence at 300l. per annum.

Prospectuses can be had from the Bankers, Auditors, or from the Secretary, at the Offices of John Chisholme & Co. (Limited), being the Registered Offices of the Company, 10 Cornhill, London, E.C., to any of whom applications for shares may be sent.

IMPORTANT CORRESPONDENCE.

The REV. SIR EDWARD R. JODRELL, Bart.

To Messrs. FELTOE & SONS,

26 Conduit Street, Regent Street, W.

When at Sall I received an Analytical Report of your "Specialité" Sherry, and you must forgive me for saying that at first I regarded the whole matter as a most egregious piece of humbug. Having, however, tasted the Wine in question, and found it most agreeable to the palate, I determined, on my own responsibility, to have it analysed for myself, having fully also determined previously to expose any hoax pro bono publico, or to give you the benefit of the analysis, should it turn out in your favour. I have the pleasure to forward you Professor Redwood's (of the Pharmaceutical Society of Great Britain) Analysis, which says more than I can express. I am very particular as to the Wine I drink, and as I have been hitherto buying "every-day Sherry" at 60s. a dozen, I am rejoiced to find now that I can purchase Wine of equal strength and superior bouquet at half that price. This should be known to the "General Public," and you can make any use you deem proper of this letter, and also of Professor Redwood's most elaborate analysis.

Yours faithful

21 Portland Place, London: December 9, 1873.

(Signed)

EDWARD REPPS JODRELL

The Rev. Sir E. R. JODRELL.

SIR,—I have completed the Analysis of the sample of Sherry you left with me, and proceed to report the results. Judged by the palate, it might be represented as a light, moderately dry Wine, with nothing to object to in its flavour or apparent strength. It is slightly acid to test-paper, and has a specific gravity of 986.8. These characters correspond with those of a sample of reputed good Montilla Sherry, the specific gravity of which was found to be 986.6, and the acidity almost identical with that of your sample.

I proceeded to make a more minute analysis, the results of which were as follows:—

Absolute alcohol, by volume	20.0	parts in 100
Free or unneutralized acid, partly volatile and partly non-volatile	0.54	"
Volatile acid (acetic acid)	0.1	"
Sugar and extract	2.5	"
Ash, from incineration of extract	0.45	"
MINERAL ACID, or inorganic matter, NOT YIELDED BY GRAPE JUICE	NONE.

THESE RESULTS ARE ALL SATISFACTORY. The proportion of alcohol is that found in the best samples of Sherry, the volatile acid (acetic acid) is not more than is usually present, and the fixed acid is the TRUE ACID OF THE GRAPE, namely, tartaric acid. The ash is not more than it should be, and contains nothing foreign to the grape.

In preparing this Analysis, I have been enabled to observe that the alcohol, when separated from the other constituents of the Wine, was PURE IN FLAVOUR AND OF GOOD QUALITY, and that there was NOTHING OBJECTIONABLE in the extract or other products that were separated in the process of analyzation.

I am, yours truly,

(Signed)

T. REDWOOD, Professor of Chemistry to the

DIETETIC RECORD.

"SPECIALITÉ" SHERRY.

"This wine has now maintained its reputation more than three years. Comparing an analysis which we made recently with the analysis of three years ago, we are glad to see that it is still an honest, sound wine, free from acid, and of excellent quality. It has attained and deserves a great medical reputation."

The
PUBLIC ANALYST for PADDDINGTON

writes, January 17, 1874:—

"I have had it tested in my laboratory, and am satisfied that it is a genuine, high-class, natural wine, and free from any admixture or acidity. Invalids, and persons who have gouty or uric acid tendencies, and require wine as a beverage in moderate quantity, will find your 'SPECIALITÉ' SHERRY pure and wholesome."

The
BRITISH MEDICAL JOURNAL
writes, March 1, 1873, in its Official Report upon
the

at
BIRMINGHAM:—

"Only one wine was shown this year—FELTOE'S 'SPECIALITÉ' SHERRY—a wine which is deservedly making its way chiefly through the recommendations of the Medical Profession, founded on its honestly excellent qualities, its freedom from acidity and heat, and its uniform soundness."

BOTHWELL.

By ALGERNON CHARLES SWINBURNE.

"Mr. Swinburne's most prejudiced critic cannot deny that 'Bothwell' is a poem of a very high character. It is written in a broad, nervous style, and moves with stately measure. Every line bears traces of power, individuality, and vivid imagination. Mr. Swinburne is not only a master of the music of language, but he has that indescribable touch which discloses the true poet—the touch that lifts from off the ground."—Saturday Review.

NOTICE TO CONTRIBUTORS OF MEMOIRS.—Authors are reminded that, under an arrangement dating from 1871, the acceptance of Memoirs, and the days on which they are to be read, are now, as far as possible, determined by Organising Committees for the several sections before the beginning of the Meeting. It has therefore become necessary, in order to give an opportunity to the Committees of doing justice to the several communications, that each Author should prepare an Abstract of his Memoir, of a length suitable for insertion in the published Transactions of the Association, and that he should send it, together with the original Memoir, by book-post on or before August 1, addressed thus:—"General Secretaries, British Association, 22 Albemarle Street, London, W." For Sections of the Association, it should be inconvenient to the Author that his Paper should be read on any particular day, he is requested to send information thereof to the Secretaries in a separate note.

WORDSWORTH'S TOUR IN SCOTLAND IN 1803,

IN COMPANY with his SISTER and S. T. COLERIDGE;

Being the JOURNAL of MISS WORDSWORTH, now for the first time made public.

Edited by PRINCIPAL SHAIRP, LL.D.

"If there were no other record of her than those brief extracts from her journal during the Highland Tour, which stand at the head of several of her brother's poems, these alone would prove her possessed of a large portion of his genius. Larger extracts from them occur in the poet's biography and in the edition of the Poems of 1857, and often they seem nearly as good as the poems they introduce. Might not that wonderful journal even yet be given entire, or nearly so, to the world?"—North British Review.
